FIESTA OF SANTA ROSALIA

CANNERY ROW SWINGS AGAIN

By Charles Strosnider

Carmel's Parking Problem?

Proof that there are a considerable number of losers among the participants of the "Musical Chairs" time limit parking game was evident after the Police Department made a five day survey during Easter Week.

Overtime parking citations were issued to 182 merchants and their employees during this period. These business people will pay a total of $364.00 in fines, but more important, how many parking spaces did they occupy that could have been used by potential customers?

Assuming that only these 182 violators work a five day week, six hours per day, and juggle their cars each hour to "beat the clock," they would fill a total of 1,020 parking spaces every five days!

The City offers a partial solution to our limited parking in the business area; free all-day off street parking at the Sunset Center to merchants and visitors alike.

However, the two block walk, beneficial as it would be from a health standpoint, will no doubt be looked upon with disdain by people who have become addicted to "Musical Chairs."

Incidentally, 391 parking citations were issued to other than merchants and employees.

Satellite Station Dedication Apr. 25

The COMSAT Communications Station in Upper Carmel Valley will be officially dedicated on Friday, Apr. 25.

The Jamesburg Station, operated jointly by the Communications Satellite Corp., American Telephone and Telegraph Co., RCA Global Communications, Inc., ITT World Communications, Inc., and Western Union International, Inc., will be open to the public all day Friday, and guided tours will be conducted through the station.

The COMSAT Station is located on Cachagua Road, and the tours will start at 11 a.m.

The Fiesta of Santa Rosalia was a relaxed, happy, family affair,* sailing with the blessing that the fishing season ahead would be abundant and prosperous.

The family of cannery owners, boat owners, fishermen, workers, cannery/boat owners, boat owners/fishermen, and all related thereto, had wrangled for weeks over fish prices, tonnage and pay — each hot debate a pleasure in itself.

The Fiesta, traditionally August first, was the send-off that inaugurated a new season filled with the customary great expectations. The vagaries of Nature's bounty were well known but this was no time to dwell on any but the now — the present — the great shoals of pilchards waiting to be netted.

Ashore, the year around — only slightly dampened by impecuniousness during the off season — Cannery Row swung! It was a place of activity at all times.

This was the economic focal point of the entire Monterey area. It was the greatest sardine packing spot of the world. There was no Fort Ord, no Navy School, few tourists — the real money came from here.

Why, then, shouldn't all accommodations be made for the bread-winner, the fisherman home from the sea, the cannery worker on call day or night, the chancy entrepreneurs with their canneries and boats and the businessmen and bankers whose fortunes were dependent upon that of Cannery Row?

The glory was there, the booze was there, the bordellos were there, the fun was there. The sorrow and distress were there too in years of bad seasons or in the disasters of great fires, but the spirit remained.

There were a dozen or more of houses of ill fame, led by the philanthropic Flora with her Lone Star Cafe and her daughter with La Ida Cafe — which still stands as Kalisa's — and there was "Doc" Ricketts shipping marine biological specimens to the world, and there was John Steinbeck who made Cannery Row even more famous than it was.

MANTILLA ADJUSTMENT — Polly Campbell of Carmel (Judge Gordon Campbell's daughter) and David Hoskins of Marina, portray a couple at an early day ball. A festive ball scene will be shown at the Casa Amesti, on the Adobe Tour. Polly is a U.C. student and David attends MPC. Morgan Stock, head of MPC drama department will use the talents of several members of the drama class to portray historic characters during the "Walk Through History," theme of the Adobe Tour for '69. They will help establish the "Live & In Color" idea of the presentation. Mr. Stock will be in charge of many of the live vignettes to be featured on the tour this year.

CLOSE SCRUTINY — While book dealers like James D. Campbell, left, of the Polygon in Monterey and Miss Kay Lawler of the Carmel Book Shop, attend the annual Wellesley Club book sale and perhaps glean a few items from the vast collection, the general public is the primary benefactor from the sale. Literally thousands of books go on sale for this once-a-year, one-day-only sale, the proceeds from which go to the Wellesley College Scholarship Fund. The book sale will be held in the Estrada Adobe in Monterey on Apr. 25 from 8:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m.

UGH!

Just 2,198 Carmel voters turned out to elect Rev. James W. Brock and James I. Miller to fill two vacant seats on the Carmel Unified School District Board of Education.

This disgraceful turnout is just about 18 per cent of the 9,865 registered voters in the Carmel district.

The Board of Education is the body that will spend the bulk of the property taxes currently levied on land owners, who apparently, at least in Carmel, care little or nothing about how their tax money is spent.

Perhaps when AB 272 becomes effective in July, 1970, and the school board has the power to levy unlimited taxes to support any school program they dream up, more registered voters will wish they had done just that.

Sanitary District Expansion Plan

The Carmel Board of Realtors at its luncheon meeting last Thursday heard J. Wentworth Lewis, president of the Carmel Sanitary District Board of Directors announce a $1,480,000 expansion plan for a sewage treatment plant.

Lewis explained the functions of the Carmel Sanitary District as it related to the Realtors and the residents of Carmel Bay area and their efforts to prevent water pollution.

Kennedy Engineers of San Francisco were authorized to prepare plans and specifications for the plant construction at the regular meeting of the Carmel Sanitary Board on Apr. 8, and the board hopes to let contracts within ten months, subject to the approval of the State Regional Water Quality Board.

Lewis also announced adoption of a resolution approving an agreement with the Pebble Beach Sanitary District, which will share the costs of construction and maintenance of plant facilities as a joint venture.

The Pebble Beach Sanitary District share of the plant cost will be made with funds from their recent bond issue.

The Carmel Sanitary District share is planned to be financed from construction funds on hand and other sources available without resorting to a bond issue.

Monterey Group In Pollution Protest

A busload of interested citizens showed up at a meeting of the California Water Resources Board in San Jose yesterday to voice opposition to a plan to dump sewage into the Pacific Ocean at Pigeon Point.

The board was holding open hearings on a survey made by the Kaiser Company at a cost in excess of $3 million.

Several of those from the Monterey Bay area testified before the board and expressed their opposition to the survey.

Among those testifying were Earl Moser, conservation chairman for the Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club; Mayor Minnie Coyle of Monterey; Phil Hambrook, conservation chairman for the Monterey Peninsula Junior Chamber of Commerce, which furnished the free bus; Anthony Devi, also of the Jaycees; Mrs. Betty Hughes, secretary of the Western Field Outdoor Club, and Professor Lowell Adams, human ecology instructor at Monterey Peninsula College.

The Monterey group expressed concern that Monterey Bay would be in danger of pollution by the outfall from the Kaiser proposal's Phase II, and demanded more study be made of the problem.

The chairman of the board assured the group that no decision would be made until the board holds hearings in the Monterey Bay area.

CHS Music Dept. Presents UOP Band

The Carmel High School music department will present the University of Pacific Symphonic Band in concert on Tuesday, Apr. 22, at 8:00 p.m. in Sunset Auditorium.

Under the direction of David S. Goedecke, the band will perform "The Overture to Candide" by Leonard Bernstein, "Fugue a la Gigue" by Bach, "The Suite of old American Dances" by Bennett, and many other selections.

The program will also feature selections by the University Jazz Band and Brass Ensemble which is directed by Richard Meeks.

Proceeds from the concert will benefit the high school music department. Tickets for the program will be sold at the door.

FOTO FLIGHT — Pat Beyhan, at the controls, and Aage Knudsen prepare to take off on an aerial photographic flight. The aerial photo of Cannery Row in this week's Pine Cone supplement was made from a Monarch Aviation Plane flown by Beyhan, who is the firm's chief pilot. Knudsen, owner of the Royal Danish Bakery in Carmel, arranged the flight through Jack Sloan, owner of Monarch. Sloan started flying in open cockpit planes in WW II, and is the Past Exalted Ruler and District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler of the Elks Club. Beyhan instructs in private, commercial, instrument and multi-engine flight, and is approved by the Federal Aviation Administration. He works as a team with instructor Dick Thompson, who are both Gold Seal instructors, two of only about 300 in the world.

HAPPY WINNER — Mrs. Alan Golden of Pacific Grove accepts a Sony portable television set from Scott Rambach, manager of the United California Bank in the Carmel Rancho Shopping Center, which moved into spacious new quarters on Monday. More than 2400 people attended the open house in the new building, and inspected the U. S. Treasury exhibit of money, past and present. Other prizes drawing winners for the day were Ted Fehring, Bryan T. Smith, Bob Miller, Gretchen Adams and Capt. H. P. Wright (USN Ret.), all of Carmel.

Commission Suggests Drama Awards

The Carmel Cultural Commission took a step at Tuesday night's meeting which could be the beginning of a new effort to restore Carmel's once nationally recognized place as the site of world premieres in the theater.

Following the proposal by Commissioner Patricia Faul that the city offer an award for an original play, Commission Chairman D. Paul Medallie suggested that an award of $1,000 for such a play would be sufficient to interest new playwrights in submitting manuscripts in the competition for the award, particularly since the intent of the city would presumably be to produce the play next year as part of the coming California Bicentennial celebration.

After further discussion, the Commission decided to ask the City Council to consider setting aside the sum of $2,500 for the suggested drama award and for related promotion and production expenses.

Among the many plays given their first productions in Carmel, starting in the early years of the century, were Constance Lindsay's "David," Mary Austin's "Fire," Sidney Howard's "Sons of Spain," John Patrick's "Glory Lane," and Robinson Jeffers' "Tower Beyond Tragedy."

Much of the discussion at Tuesday night's meeting concerned the question of a possible restaurant at Sunset Center, and whether such a restaurant should, or should not, have a hard liquor license.

Eventually the Commission voted unanimously to approve in principle the concept of a limited-type restaurant with only a beer-and-wine license.

During further discussion of possible future Sunset Center plans, the Cultural Commission took a tentative stand against the moving of city hall activities, even on an interim basis, to Sunset.

This often-discussed proposal, as pointed out by Commissioner James Pruitt, would eventually depend upon a decision not of the Commission, but of the City Council, though it would be one upon which the Commission could express a view.

The eventual view of the Commission was expressed in a motion made by Commissioner Lois Renk which stated that "Sunset Center is not an appropriate location for city hall."

During a meeting in which the Cultural Commission took a series of theoretical stands, it also decided that it would be opposed to use of the gymnasium at Sunset by youngsters for such activities as basketball practice, when such activities were unsupervised recreation.

In another connection, Sunset Manager Cole Weston stated that a new seating plan for Sunset Auditorium would add additional new seats if their purchase could be financed. A total of 714 new seats have already been ordered by the City Council. The new plan would increase the possible total to 733.

Contributions to a fund to provide help to the City to pay for the new seats, now covers the cost of 216 such seats, Commissioner Stanley reported, voicing some disapproval so far.

TOP KITE — Henry Wythe, right, of Monterey, holds the trophy symbolic of the Ernest Calley Perpetual Plaque and Malcolm Moran Award, and the kite that one them. He has received his prizes from Donald Nelson, left, a member of the Lions Club, which sponsors the event along with the Carmel Unified School District Recreation Department. In the center is Gregg Hittleman who won the Best Workmanship prize for the nine through 12 category.

MPC ENTRY — This scientifically designed box-type kite, put together paying strict attention to the laws and theories of aerodynamics was entered by Al Viewig, left, Prime Minister of the MPC Parliament, and Niki Davis. The kite never got off the ground.

PEEKABOO KITE—Entries included everything in the entire spectrum of kite building, kit materials and kite flyers. This adult entry (Steve McCann, Carmel Valley) was an elaborate job of delicate and precision manufacture. Entries were made of plastic, the traditional kite tissue and last week's copy of the Pine Cone. Entries came from as far away as Los Gatos, from where Merrill Kelley made the trip with a kite that was judged the prettiest.

PARTY PLANS . . .

by Phyllis Jervey

"Carmel's Collector's Kitchen"

Collecting is to Cherish!

Especially at the "Collector's Kitchen" in Carmel at Dolores and Sixth. And what a corner to catch passersby! The window is filled with brightly enameled imported casseroles and skillets. Colorful and dramatic kitchen towels, fashion originals of Belgian linen, form a backdrop.

All this invites you to stop by and revive your own kitchen with new gadgets plus pots and pans. The kind that give a lift to your domestic life.

This charming spot is family owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Clint Eastwood Sr., and their son-in-law and daughter Bill and Jeanne Bernhardt now of Pebble Beach.

Mrs. Margaret Wilson and Mrs. Gladys Hamilton assist enthusiastically. They showed your "Party Plans" sleuth around this "sharp" shop. Here are some of the items that any of us would most want to come home to!

There is a special Copco-ware which spreads heat evenly and keeps hot longer than most cooking utensils. It is equally efficient on top of the stove, in the oven, "frig" or freezer. And instead of scrubbing, it needs only to be soaked in warm suds, then wiped off with a sponge, plus rinsing.

This kind of "from-stove-to-table-to-refrigerator" arrangement will save time and tears. And what a wide choice there surely is of ultra modern, practical cooking ware.

The utensils and tools you use for cooking are your best kitchen friends. They determine to a great extent your cuisine success or failure.

Consider these points when buying. Think of your needs and purchase those of best quality — you'll be using them constantly. Some items such as paring knives and spoons are used in different parts of the kitchen simultaneously. Save time and steps by having duplicates. Call it "storage at the point of first use."

From the tiny to the huge, here is the range of the "Collector's Kitchen." French foil petit four or cake cases; English lamb chop frills. Strawberry cullers; bean stringer and slicer; radish curler; pineapple eye; Danish whisks; single or multiple spoon rests; rooster and hen pot holders and marmites for pot-au-feu of every size.

German enamel on pressed steel roasting pans; French kitchen scales; Chinese Wok cooking pot shaped like an inverted coolie hat, requiring no water; salmon or other large fish "poacher." Besides egg holders, cups and saucers, china in every size and imported from all over. . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Clint Eastwood's son, Clint Jr. of TV and movie fame, is, with his wife Maggie, les gourmets of the family. While on location in Mexico, Italy, Spain, they picked up ways with food and drink. From our Southwestern states, during the filming of the Rawhide series for TV and while in Austria doing the currently released counter espionage epic "Where Eagles Dare," Clint acquired many ways to create his own specialties.

Originally appearing in The Sacramento Bee, we reprint two of Clint's favorite dishes, self-inspired. These are particularly interesting to us Carmelites, because the Junior Eastwoods love their Carmel home and often vacation here.

Clint Eastwood's Western Bone Marrow Stew

Two lbs. meat and bone from shin bone; 2 lbs. meat and bone from knuckle of veal; 2 t. safflower or vegetable oil; 5 qts. cold water; 1 t. coarse salt; 8 cracked peppercorns; 2 stalks celery with tops, chopped; 2 large onions, sliced; 2 cloves garlic, pressed; 2 bay leaves, crushed; 4 sprigs parsley, snipped; ½ t. dried thyme; 3 lbs. lean beef (round or chuck) cut into large "hunks"; 2 tomatoes, peeled and quartered; ½ green pepper, chopped; 6 carrots, peeled and cubed; ½ cup sliced celery; 2 small onions, sliced; ½ cup barley; 1 cup green peas (preferably fresh).

Have butcher crack bones into small pieces. Brown these with meat in oil in large stock pot. Remove same from heat and remove visible fat. Add cold water to meat and bones. Bring to boil and simmer. Season with salt, peppercorns, celery, onions, garlic, bay leaves, parsley and thyme.

Remove scum that forms with slotted spoon. Cover and simmer 3½ hours, skimming surface every half hour. Cool stew and refrigerate. Remove congealed fat and discard with bones.

In separate heavy skillet, brown lean beef pieces in oil.

Add these to soup stock. Simmer uncovered 1½ hours. Cool, refrigerate and remove congealed fat. Reheat soup, adding tomatoes, green pepper, carrots, celery, onions, barley. Cook 1 hour longer, skimming surface.

Correct seasoning, add peas, cook 15 minutes. To serve, remove meat and vegetables into heated deep soup tureen. Spoon stock over everything. Garnish with parsley. Serves 8 in soup dishes.

The flavor from the marrow bones is what makes this soup-stew what it is. The slow simmering extracts all there is but for additional flavor, a tied bunch of celery tops, peapods, green onion tops, are an additional flavor guarantee when adding cold water to the browned marrow soup bones. Remove at serving. It is easiest to tie these extras into a double cheesecloth bag.

Clint's Own Carmel Eggs
Six very freshest Carmel Valley Grade AA Jumbo eggs; 3 t. cream; salt, freshly ground pepper to taste; 6 slices cheddar cheese, cubed; 4 baby artichoke hearts (parboiled in salted water), drained, diced; ½ t. oregano; dash of cayenne and/or paprika; 2 t. oil (not olive); 2 t. minced fresh parsley.

Beat eggs until light; add next 7 items. Heat oil in heavy skillet until just hot; pour egg mixture into this. Stir constantly with wooden spoon. Scrape bottom and sides of skillet to prevent eggs from sticking. Cook only until soft. Remove from heat. Garnish with parsley and serve right off with toasted English muffins. Clint says this satisfies two . . . maybe three!

With all those implements to complement his creative cuisine, Clint's family certainly can supply what's needed most for what's cooking . . . in your home or theirs . . . at The Collector's Kitchen.

'Opera Gala' At MPC Set for Apr. 20 To Raise Voice Scholarship Fund

Fourteen well-known singers from the Peninsula and other parts of California will donate their services Sunday, Apr. 20, to "The Opera Gala," a musical event designed to launch a scholarship fund program for young voice students at Monterey Peninsula College.

The Gala, a program of operatic arias, will be presented twice in the MPC music hall on the announced date: at 3 p.m. and again at 8:30. Tickets reasonably priced, may be obtained through the college community service office or at the door before the performance.

The performing artists will include:

Mezzo-sopranos Linda Purdy, recent winner of the Modesto Symphony Prize who will sing with the Monterey County Symphony May 6; Margery Tede, recent recipient of the 2,000 National Association of Music Clubs Award for study in Madrid; Carol Burch, who is now singing the lead role in "The Rape of Lucretia" at Stanford University and will be a soloist in the 1969 Carmel Bach Festival; and Ann Graber, a Bay Area oratorio soloist who is currently performing with the San Francisco Opera.

Contraltos Hjordis Halter, well-known performer and soloist from the Portland, Oregon, area; and Glenna DeWeese, recent soloist in the Monterey County Symphony's performance of "The Messiah."

Sopranos Norma Jean Hodges, recent Monterey County Symphony soloist in Haydn's "Creation" and "The Messiah" who was formerly with the San Francisco Light Opera Company; Norma Gehrke, an 18-year old soloist who has performed with the Junior Bach Festival in the Oakland-Berkeley area for the past three years; Norma Bruzzone, a member of the San Francisco Opera chorus; and Glenda Bell, an MPC student who has soloed with the college's choral groups.

Tenor James Hull, a well-known local oratorio soloist who has been featured at the Bach Festival for several years; bass-baritone Robert Armstead, an oratorio soloist who has appeared in solo recital with University of California choral groups and locally; baritone Dennis Emmerling, a graduate of Reed College who attended Stanford University as a graduate music student and has performed extensively both as a piano soloist and a vocalist; and baritone Charles Woodul, who sang with the Berne (Switzerland) Opera for three years and has sung with several opera groups in New York City.

Dr. Harvey Marshall, MPC music department chairman, urges all local music-lovers to attend the first-time event. "It will be a fine program," he says. "The music department has scholarship help for instrumentalists, through the generosity of the Monterey Jazz Festival but no funds for young vocalists. We are hopeful that The Opera Gala will at least be a start for such funds."

Movie Review

100 Rifles — Story of the Yaku Indian uprising in Mexico in 1912. Jim Brown and Raquel Welch star in this made-in-Spain Western.

Mayerling — Tragic story of the Crown Prince Rudolf of the Austria-Hungary Empire in the late 19th century. Omar Sharif, and Catherine Deneuve star.

Three In the Attic — Picture about an American college made in England. Lots of sex as three girls gang up on a self-styled Romeo, much of his discomfiture.

The Lion In Winter — Peter O'Toole and Katherine Hepburn turn in outstanding performances in this drama of Henry II and his queen. Great dialogue and a great film.

Romeo and Juliet — Franco Zeffirelli's production starring Leonard Whiting, 17, as Romeo and Olivia Hussey, 16, as Juliet. A sensitive and poetic picture shot in northern Italy where the tragedy actually occurred.

The Illustrated Man — Rod Steiger, almost completely covered with tattoos representing scenes from his life, is a wandering drifter. Claire Bloom is the mysterious tattooeress.

Rachel, Rachel — Joanne Woodward is directed by her husband, Paul Newman in this really great movie about small town mores. Highly recommended.

The Heart is a Lonely Hunter — Alan Arkin as a deaf mute is sensitive and completely believable. His compassion for other social outcasts makes this an outstanding picture.

The Model Shop — This film covers 24 hours in the life of a young drifter in Los Angeles. It is a sympathetic, honest film with a refreshing view of today's off-beat youth.

Theatre Guide

Everybody Loves Opal — Oh so funny comedy about three of the most inept con artists ever portrayed, who unsuccessfully try to bilk a kindly lady junk dealer out of her shoes, then form equally unsuccessful plots to knock her off for her insurance. One of the wackiest plays ever produced. Now at the Studio Theater-Restaurant weekends. Better call 624-1661 for reservations.

Ten Little Indians — Alternating comedy and chilling suspense make this Circle Theater production great entertainment. Direction is well paced, acting more than adequate, and it all adds up to another hit from the Community Players. Reservations recommended by calling 624-2669.

'Faraway Places' Series at MPC

"Faraway Places," described as a series of "lectures and slides by world-minded people," will open at Monterey Peninsula College Friday, Apr. 18, with a presentation entitled "A Russian Summer" by Dr. Ann Nowell, psychologist, and Mrs. Dale Eberly.

The free program will begin at noon in MPC's Lecture-Forum 102. Members of the public who plan to attend are advised to park their cars in the new parking lots at the front of the campus off Fremont and walk across a gully bridge to the lecture-forum building. No tickets will be required for admission.

During the summer of 1968, Dr. Nowell and Mrs. Eberly took a camping tour in the Ukraine and the Soviet Republic to study the language and culture of Russia. They mingled with students and "experienced life far from the tourist circuit." It is this trip they will discuss in their presentation.

Other programs planned for the series will include:

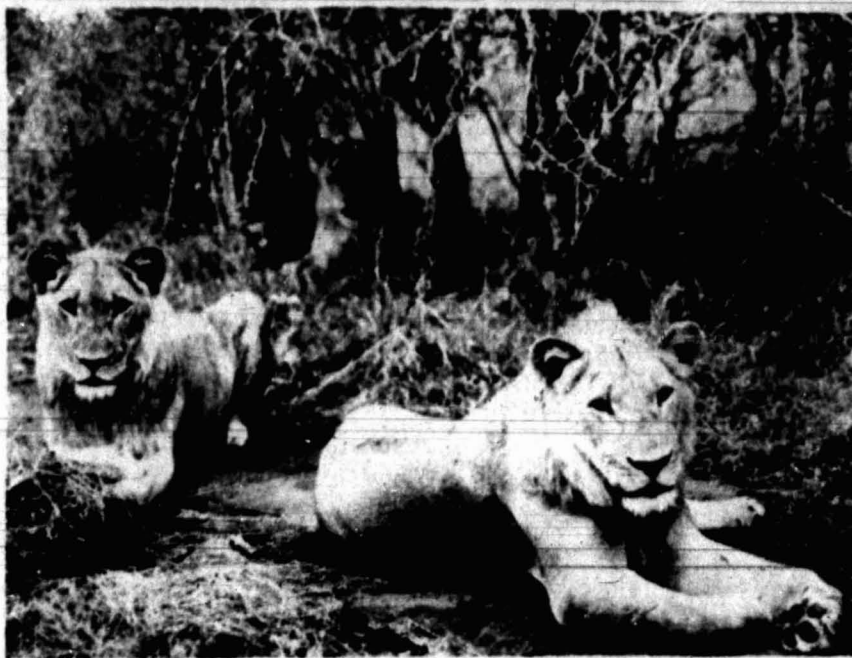

"Mingling with the Maharajas," a program by retired art instructor Sophie Harpe on a year spent in India in close association with the royal families — April 25.

"Vietnam — Face-to-Face Encounters with the People," featuring Heinz Hubler, MPC community services officer, with slides taken during a year of employment with the USIS and the Red Cross in Vietnam — May 2;

"A Safari Without Insects," featuring Mrs. George Dietterle, local landscape gardener, with slides taken during two years in East Africa when her husband was an administrator for the Peace Corps — May 9.

"The Arab World We Know," a presentation by four MPC Arab students — Ghassan Al-Ghanim of Kuwait, Ahmed Al-Zamil and Abdelaziz Kingawi from Saudi Arabia and Samir Nassar from Lebanon on the cultural story of their homelands, with emphasis on "the warm hospitality for which the Arab family is famous" — May 16.

The series has been planned by Rosabelle Hamann, MPC foreign student advisor and sociology instructor.

AFRICAN TOUR — This pride of obviously proud lions lies in a cover of thornbush in Kenya, one of the stops on the Four Winds Tours to Africa. The tours cover the Dark Continent from the Nile to Cape Town, and besides these lions, includes camera safaris in jungle and veldt. Although many species of African wild life are still nearing extinction, the work of African governments is slowing the trend by providing game reserves for these magnificent animals.

Salvation Army Spring Cleanup

The season for spring cleaning is with us, and the Salvation Army is right in the midst of their annual spring salvage drive, when they urge you to take advantage of free pick-up service for their red shield trucks in order to help you clear out accumulated clutter.

The Salvation Army can use the items you are ready to discard — clothing, bedding, mattresses, rugs, appliances, books, furniture, toys.

Such items are repaired and put into saleable condition and sold through the army's thrift stores. Restoration of these materials furnishes work for many men seeking rehabilitation and a return to useful society.

A telephone call to 294-6316, will bring a red shield truck to your door for collection of articles during this spring salvage week, which runs from Apr. 13 through Apr. 19.

Christian Science Radio Program

"Meeting Family Responsibilities" is the title of next Sunday's program in the Christian Science radio series "The Bible Speaks to You" and will be heard over stations KGO at 7:15, KRML at 7:45 and KDON at 8:45. This program presents a discussion in which God is acknowledged as Father-Mother, the protector and loving provider of all man's needs.

Helen Dooley Exhibits One-Man Show At Lord and Taylor in New York

Carmel artist Helen B. Dooley will be honored with a one-man show of her paintings at Lord and Taylor Galleries in New York from Apr. 15 through May 15.

This is Miss Dooley's first full scale exhibit in New York, although she has exhibited in competitive shows there in the past.

The exhibit will consist of 20 oils, mostly done in her expressionistic style and will relate to many subjects.

"A Day At The Beach No. III," one of her most recent paintings, will highlight the exhibition.

Other of Miss Dooley's paintings to be hung for the show include "Carnival," "Summertime," "Winter Gold" and impressions of west coast scenes in "Harbor" and "Sand Dunes."

Miss Dooley has painted and exhibited in Carmel for more than 20 years and has been a frequent exhibitor at the Carmel Art Association galleries as well as in local and national competitive shows.

She has received many awards, including a first and third from the Society of Western Artists in San Francisco.

She was recently a winner of one of the top awards in the annual competitive show at the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art Association.

Formerly a professor of art at the University of Pacific for many years, Miss Dooley now directs her own gallery in Carmel.

She is listed in Who's Who in American Art, Who's Who of American Women and the Index of American Scholars.

Swanson Showing At La Petite Galerie

by Louise Cook

The dry brush water colors of Ray Swanson, being shown at La Petite Galerie in Carmel Square on Carlos St., reveal a remarkable talent for so young an artist. Only thirty years old, he has developed a seasoned finesse in the exacting medium in which he works.

Swanson, having lived on a mid-western farm for many years, is preoccupied with the rural scene which he portrays in earthy tones. Extreme realism is achieved in wood grain, rusty metal, dry grasses and twiggy trees.

Bright pumpkins lie in sunlit straw in a barn loft in one painting; another shows red apples lying like bright jewels in the green grass; a frosty snow scene includes a barren tree starkly accenting a house half hidden below a hill. Skillful composition emerges from the hand of a mature technician.

Another favorite subject is the American Indian. Swanson's love for and interest in the American Indian is shown in extraordinarily life like portraits.

Within the last year Ray Swanson has won four first awards in important competitions: 7th Annual Riverside Competition, 19th Annual Death Valley Invitational, Five-County Juried Art Exhibit, San Bernardino and All California (National Orange Show).

The artist will be present at a special showing at La Petite Galerie on April 26th and 27th.

Wildflower Show At PG Museum

More than 400 species and varieties of Monterey County wildflowers will be shown at the 8th Annual Wildflower Show Apr. 18, 19, and 20 at the Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History.

The exhibition will include some of the rarest plants known with examples of Hickman's Onion, Tidestrom's Lupine and Menzies' Wallflower being placed on display.

It will also include widely known wildflowers like the California Poppy, Brodiaea, and Sky Lupine.

Because the show has such wide variety it has been praised by botanists and laymen alike as one of the finest wildflower exhibits to be found anywhere.

To assemble the array of flowers a select group of individuals visit all regions of Monterey County to collect a few flowers of the different species encountered.

These are then delivered to the museum identified and placed on exhibition, all within a very short period of time. This is why everything will appear as freshly picked.

Care is also taken where rare flowers are shown, for these collections are made where they are locally abundant or else they are not taken.

The museum is located at the corner of Forest and Central Avenues in Pacific Grove. The show may be viewed for the three days only from 10:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. Admission is free. The museum will be closed all day Thursday, Apr. 17 to prepare the exhibition.

REPORTS FROM RLS

by George Wing

(Editor's Note: 15 boys from the Robert Louis Stevenson School spent the Easter Vacation in Guatemala. Their guides for the tour of archaeological and anthropological points of interest were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Robertson, members of the Staff and Faculty at RLS. The writer of this two-part series is George Wing.)

The airport terminal at Guatemala City was very interesting. It was Spanish in style and the floor-plan was that of a train station. Police and soldiers were a frequent sight as we slowly passed the Customs Inspection.

Riding to the hotel, we passed and wound through the snarl of traffic which ranged from new Mercedes-Benz to smoking jalopies to hand-drawn carts. We passed a row of open sidewalk stores and a campus of a new school with a class-room building towering several stories.

The Plaza Hotel is well situated for taking in the City by foot. We spent the evening of Mar. 28 exploring the many streets and shops. Saturday was spent looking at the archaeological sights around and about Guatemala City. Accompanied by Dr. Steven Parsons, we visited the town of Santa Lucia, Cotzumalhuapa, and the "dig" known as El Baul. The round, Olmec-like head excavated at El Baul by Dr. Parsons is believed to be the oldest yet discovered in middle America.

At 9 a.m. the next morning, our group left for the center of the classic period Mayan Astronomy - Copan, Honduras. In Copan we stayed at the Hotel Marina and thoroughly enjoyed the good food prepared by its kitchen. The town consisted of about 300 people.

The Maya ruins were just down a trail from the airstrip. Here exists the famed Hieroglyphic Stairway with some 2500 continuous glyphs on the 63 risers.

The Maya form of writing, the glyphs, has at this time been only partially translated - exposing to scientific scrutiny the Maya Calendar and Numerical System.

It was thought that the glyphs on the famed Maya Stela celebrated great mathematical calculations of priests of notable accomplishment; it is now believed that with the understanding of this system of communication we will, within a number of years, be able to re-write the entire Mayan history to include emperors and dynasties long hidden by the almost meaningless undecipherable glyphs.

Copan is famed for its Stela-in-the-round of which there were many fine examples in the main plaza - some with altars carved as large turtles, a Maya symbol of royalty. Also at Copan was a ball court situated between two large temples. Possibly the game played in ball courts of this sort found all over Meso-America, had religious significance.

We returned to Guatemala City the afternoon of the next day and got ready for the drive to the market town of Chichicastenango the next day. The drive took two or three hours and was climaxed by a hair-raising winding descent down a newly completed stretch of "road."

Our accommodations were fantastic. Everyone was impressed by obvious expenditure of much time and effort in collecting the many valuable antiques which filled our rooms. Chichicastenango reflects the dominance of the Indian in the population of Guatemala.

It was interesting to observe the pagan ceremonies during the Easter Week. On the main square are two churches, a small one used exclusively by the Indians for their religious practices and a large church also used by the Indians but shared by the few Christians who live in Chichicastenango.

Candles play a large role in the cure of the sick Indian. The individual afflicted goes to a witch doctor who questions him as to the day he became sick and what offenses were committed in his past. Since each day is that of a specific god, the day the individual became ill is of great importance because it indicates the god whom he has offended. To again place the patient in favor with this god, the witch doctor prescribes a certain candle or set of candles to be burned on each day.

The Market of Wednesday was the financial highlight of the trip with almost everyone blowing all available cash. People from all over the countryside come to sell their wares and produce under temporary white-sheet stalls erected within the central square.

Long colorful bolts of material hung in the back of a typical shop while serapes, coats, and other linens adorned the front. The bargaining was lots of fun and it involved stamping feet and frantically waving arms to obtain a low price.

At one o'clock we left Chichicastenango for one of the most beautiful stretches of water in the world, Lake Atitlan. The Lago de Atitlan is nestled among high volcanic mountains. Three volcanoes are reputed to exist on the very bottom of the lake.

On the morning of Apr. 3 we embarked on a 45 minute boat trip to an Indian village called Santiago Atitlan. Here, a man's importance is signified by the amount of embroidery on his clothing.

In the afternoon, we drove to the colonial town of Antigua. During our stay we observed the religious celebrations for Good Friday. These included a night of parades.

One of the most interesting customs practiced here is that of sand painting in the street. The sand paintings are constructed by first putting down a layer of palm fronds and then placing upon this foundation a layer of sand upon which is made the actual painting. The painting is done with colored sawdust which is formed in place by paper cutouts of the design.

As we walked from sand painting to sand painting we could not help but notice the license plates from all over Central America. Thousands of people had come to observe the festivities of Holy Week in Antigua.

Games Kids Should Play At CV Inn

Teachers, school administrators, parents and other interested citizens were invited today by County Schools Superintendent Ed Coffin to learn about "Games Kids Should Play."

The occasion is an Apr. 19 conference on simulations (educational games) sponsored by the Monterey County Office of Education. Conference site will be the Carmel Valley Inn.

Maximum opportunity will be provided for those who attend the conference to actually participate in simulations play and activities. Additionally, the consultants will present an outline of major simulations types and discuss the simulations learning theory.

Use of simulations as learning devices was popularized by military planners. The technique has been widely adopted by industrial corporations which recognize the games' value in decision making training.

Simulations are growing in popularity with educators as excellent learning motivators, as devices for making abstract studies more concrete and hence more understandable and as methods for students to make immediate, practical application of their studies.

The conference will open at 9 a.m. and close at 4 p.m.

Additional information may be obtained from Beverly van Benthuyzen, County Office of Education, phone 424-0655 or 373-2955.

Reviews for Young Readers

By Allene Fremler

Starting out with an old favorite, let me mention The Story of Babar, The Little Elephant, by Jean de Brunhoff.

This is one which parents and even grandparents can enjoy nostalgically.

Babar has been particularly popular these past few months. Perhaps it is due to the recent television version. Also, we have loaned stuffed dolls of some of the characters from the many stories.

Come in and see them. You will be able to recognize Babar, Celeste, Arthur and the others. In case you have missed some of the stories, we have Babar and Father Christmas, Babar and His Children, Babar and Zephir, Babar and The Professor, Babar's Fair, The Story of Babar, Babar's Castle and Babar's Picnic. We also have Babar's French Lessons, in French, and Babar's Spanish Lessons, in Spanish.

Herman tries to tell them he is not a bear, but they refuse to believe him. Finally, the bears get ready to hibernate and Herman says something which makes them realize that he is no bear.

"I like winter," he tells them. Then they look at him more closely and see that he hasn't a nose like a bear. Then they remove his coat and hat and see that he is not a bear at all.

While he is going home, a big black bear jumps out from behind a tree.

"Cousin Bernard, . . ." "But Herman ran just as fast as he could out of the woods."

Come Down The Mountain, by Vian Smith is an unusual story about a girl and a horse.

Sixteen-year-old Brenda, Fatso even to her friends, begs her father to help rescue an old thoroughbred who is stranded. Her father is reluctant because the horse belongs to the absentee owners of the property, who for generations have been the feudal authority in the village. At one point in the story Brenda's mother asks her what is bothering her.

Brenda knows that Mrs. Carter does not want brutal truths, but to herself she thinks: . . . "I thought about a horse that can't walk and about people like you and father, who says what a shame yet do nothing."

"And I thought about those who care about what's happening in South Africa and Vietnam, who write letters to newspapers . . . caring about events they can't influence because then they're safe, they can't do more than protest. And all the time a voice kept saying, forget it, Fatso, be like the others. It's somebody else's responsibility. It's nothing to do with you."

It is a powerful and well-written story.

For some lighter reading, we have just received Raggedy Ann's Lucky Pennies, written and illustrated by Johnny Gruelle. This certainly is not a new book, having a copyright date of 1932, but it is one which we have not had in the library. It is full of lots of Raggedy Ann fun.

Let me mention just one more, as space is running out. School Remembered, compiled by Gillian Avery is an anthology of stories having to do with school experiences.

Part I is entitled "The Prison" and contains remembrances of George Orwell, Maxim Gorki, Savitri Devi Nanda and others.

Part II is entitled "The Goal" in which the group of writers are more concerned with getting an education.

One title in this section is "Animal into Man: School-boy Life in 16 century Spain." Sounds good.

Freeway Safety Is Sheer Myth Says 'Cry California' Editor Bronson

Mark Twain wrote, "There are three kinds of lies: Plain Lies, Damned Lies and Statistics."

According to William Bronson, editor of "Cry California," a quarterly journal published by the California Tomorrow conservation organization, the freeway "safe driving myth" is a "damned lie."

Bronson says a statement by the California Freeway Support Committee that a California freeway — particularly a big city freeway — is the safest place you can drive, is not true.

Perpetuation of the lie, he says, is a "cruel trick on the California public for it means perpetuation of a transportation system which is inherently and increasingly dangerous."

Writing in the spring issue of the magazine, the author marshals detailed figures in support of his case. He says the facts are that "instead of being safer, the state's freeways are in reality unsafer for automobile and truck drivers and passengers than all other California streets and roads."

He says it is important to compare motor vehicle deaths for various kinds of roads on the basis of time spent driving or riding. He concludes that for any given time period spent on a freeway the occupant of a motor vehicle is twice as likely to get killed as he is on other streets and highways. He adds it is ironic that the Freeway Establishment can use safety as a propaganda weapon only because the congestion on urban freeways at peak traffic hours reduces speeds to 20 or 30 miles per hour, thereby reducing speed hazards.

Bronson cites the "ominous" fact of an ever-growing proportion of trucks in freeway traffic as a further safety hazard. He points out commercial vehicles are involved in about twice as many accidents as the general vehicle population in relation to their numbers.

He says if the Freeway Establishment is really concerned about safety it would push hard for lower speed limits and other safety measures. More important, it would work for a statewide, multi-mode transportation system.

Paul Caponigro's exhibit of fine photography at the Friends of Photography studio at Sunset is well worth a visit. The studio is open daily from 1 to 5 p.m., except Mondays. Admission is free.

Social Security and You

By Raymond MacDonald

Q. The handbook on Medicare constantly refers to a physician's "reasonable charges." What does this mean?

A. A charge is "reasonable" when it is the amount usually billed by physicians in a geographical area for similar services and conditions. If the charge appears inconsistent, it is subject to review.

(Mail your questions to Social Security, c/o Carmel Pine Cone, Carmel, or phone Social Security office 373-3351).

PRIZE PAINTING — Mrs. David Caylor (left) shows off a painting held by her husband and Mrs. Sam Salerno. The Caylors won the seascape by Carmel artist Joe Lazar in a contest by naming 905 songs with the work "heart" in their titles. The local couple exceeded by several times the number expected by the sponsoring Central Mission Trails Heart Association. In other communities winners of similar contests had only 150-200 titles. She is a music teacher. He is a student at the Navy Language School. Mrs. Salerno is the wife of the owner of Carmel radio station KRML, which organized the contest.

LIONS LARGEST

Maintaining its position as the world's largest service club organization, Lions International has announced the chartering of its 23,000th club.

This will place the Lions close to 10,000 clubs ahead of the next largest service group, according to Lions International president David A. Evans of Texas City, Texas.

Evans will officially welcome the Brook, Indiana, Lions Club at their Charter Night celebration on Apr. 16. Brook will be the 412th Lions Club in Indiana, with some 19,000 members in that state.

Lions International is probably best known for its work with the blind, maintaining eye banks and leader dog schools throughout the world. However, they have been responsible for the building and equipping of schools, hospital wards, rehabilitation centers, playgrounds, parks and civic centers.

Christian Science Bible Lesson

"Probation After Death" is the subject of Sunday's Christian Science Bible Lesson-Sermon.

"Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that heareth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation; but is passed from death unto life." This verse in the Responsive Reading is from John 5.

A correlative passage from the denominational textbook states: "If man is never to overcome death, why do the Scriptures say, 'The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death'? The tenor of the Word shows that we shall obtain the victory over death in proportion as we overcome sin" (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy).

Phyllis Overstreet Appleton Dies

Another link with the early days of Carmel has been broken with the passing of Mrs. Phyllis Freer Appleton, 63, daughter of the Pine Cone's founder, Bill Overstreet.

Her father had been a printer for the University of California at Berkeley, she told Raylyn Penney in a Pine Cone interview in 1962.

In 1914, Bill Overstreet purchased a second-hand press and began publishing The Pine Cone, a four-page hand set newspaper with the motto: "If you read it in The Pine Cone, you may safely repeat it."

Phyllis, according to the interview, remembered her father as a man of tremendous energy and enthusiasm who could out-work almost anyone. With his press set up in the room behind the post office which by that time was where Womble's Pharmacy is now, Bill Overstreet, working alone, set advertising and news for his paper, handled its distribution and collections, sold subscriptions and did much of the newsgathering and writing.

Phyllis herself folded Pine Cones on publication day as soon as she was big enough, and later helped do all the other jobs.

Phyllis said her father named the paper The Pine Cone because of his continuing fascination with Carmel's woods. He liked to wander through the pine groves picking up pine cones for their fire place.

Phyllis's mother, Kathryn (Kitty) Overstreet, started the Pine Needles column for her husband's paper, and sold much of the advertising.

But saying the Overstreets published the paper without help wouldn't be strictly true in a town like Carmel. It was everyone's paper.

"Before starting the paper, my father leased and operated Carmel's bathhouse at the foot of Ocean Avenue. There was board walk and a life line leading out to a raft.

"The bathhouse was an elaborate layout then. A French chef prepared chowder and other delicacies for the restaurant. A huge glass window looked out on the sea.

She recalled that in those days there were millions of blackberries. "We had thickets full of them. We children gathered and sold them to Leidig Brothers Grocery (where Kips is now).

"Every summer we looked forward to the arrival of the Columbia Park Boys who came down from the Bay area and camped on Junipero Street in the woods.

"At night they built huge bon fires and all the Carmel people gathered around to hear the entertainment they provided.

"This was the heyday, of the Forest Theater. I remember best the plays I appeared in. I was a little Indian for the Serra Pageant around 1912. I was the white rabbit in Alice in Wonderland, the lame child in the Pied Piper."

Phyllis attend Miss Emma Williams' School conducted in her home in the Eighty Acres. Her classmates included the daughters of the James Hoppers, Frank Murphy, Connie Heron and Frank Lloyd. After completing primary grades they were sent to Sunset School, then a two-room institution with two teachers.

Among the personalities Mrs. Appleton remembered with affection was Ella Reid Harrison who later endowed Carmel's library, and Alice McGowan and Grace McGo-

MPVS GARDEN TOUR — The gardens of Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Koebeg on Camino Real and 4th is one of those chosen for the Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services Garden Tour to be held on Monday, May 12, for the benefit of the Visiting Nurse Association. Mrs. Robert R. Robertson of Pebble Beach is pointing out a prize azalea to Mrs. Charles Krass of the Monterey Peninsula Country Club, an active member of MPVS. Tickets may be obtained from Miss Edith Rivett, P.O. Box 3136, Carmel or by calling 624-7246.

wan Cooke. "Cooke's Cove at the foot of 13th, was the place we went for beach suppers."

A downtown store popular with children was Curtis Candy Store operated by Delos Curtis who made his own candy. He also had a pony and cart on which was sign advertising the movie current at the Manzanita Theater.

That theater, really the Manzanita Club Hall, was where community dances, lectures and socials were held.

"It was strange and wonderful. We had all the elements of civilization, yet from our house at Ninth and Junipero we often heard coyotes howling."

Mrs. Appleton was the mother of three sons, Dewitt W. of Carmel, Michael of Carmel Valley and Gary of Sausalito. She is also survived by four grandchildren and an uncle, Harry Allen Overstreet, the author.

OBITUARY

Louis Kay, 60, of Carmel Valley, died unexpectedly on Apr. 9. A retired jewelry manufacturer, Kay and his wife Virginia were a husband-wife photographic team specializing in animals. The SPCA dogs and cats which appear in the Pine Cone have been the work of Louis and Virginia Kay.

Indian Night for Cub Pack Three

Indian skits by boys in Cub Pack 3 entertained parents at the Boy Scout House recently.

Skits were presented by Den three and the Webelos. Den 3 members were dressed as Indians and depicted a chief teaching his son to shoot bears who were played by Craig Parker and Chip Tsantes. The Webelos skit had a robot cub scout.

Following the skits, Mr. Roy Meadows Jr. of Carmel

Valley talked to the boys about the Indians who had lived in this region before the advent of the white man. Mr. Meadows is descended from these Indians as his great grandfather was an Englishman who came to the coast on a whaling ship in the early days, stayed here and married an Indian.

Following the talk, Mr. Meadows answered many questions which the Cub Scouts asked about the Indians and their life here.

Tim Allen and Mike Robesky received the Bobcat award. Malcolm Jones Jr. received the Wolf badge and the Gold Arrow on Wolf award. Alan Hamilton received the Gold Arrow on Wolf award, and George Morrice received the Silver arrow on Bear award.

Enos Fouratt's Specials

WE COULD FILL THIS PAGE with a description of the homes or sites available — and our chances of describing the property you have in mind would probably be one in a thousand.

FOR EXAMPLE: How many of you need more than 3000 square feet of three-bedroom, three-bath, three-fireplace home with a fantastic family room and living room at a price well below replacement cost at $59,500?

How many need a 2100-square-foot, three-bedroom, two-bath, separate dining room home with an ocean and Valley panoramic view for $55,000? Or —

Five excellent building sites from $22,500 to $267,000 with and without ocean frontage? Not too many of you.

A BETTER APPROACH FOR BOTH OF US might be for you to come in and discuss your requirements with us. We can give you a prompt answer about the properties we have which do meet your requirements and can arrange to show them at your convenience.

WE'LL BE MORE THAN HAPPY to help you solve your real property problem.

Cannery Row Swings Again

Lusty men, close to nature, leading lusty lives. Pleasures were offered and taken.

It is reputed that the city council would close many of its meetings only to adjourn to Flora's to discuss the really important matters.

There was the desperate newspaper editor who listed in his now defunct journal the license plate numbers of all the cars parked on Cannery Row at 3:30 a.m. one morning. He did it once!

Cannery Row really swung then. It deserved to swing.

This lasted from approximately 1895, with the building of Booth's Cannery, till the turn of the 1950's. Nearly 55 years — not counting Chinaman's Camp before that. Two generations and more.

But then the sardines cut the scene — left — departed — arrividerci, paisano.

It was a troublesome time. It broke many and shattered the way of life for much of the community.

But from this point of despair, there was only one way to go. George Leutze, Wesley Dodge and their associates formed their Cannery Row Properties, in an oft-repeated tale. Howden kept canning on a very uncertain and reduced scale. National Automotive Fibers, Inc. rebuilt a plant on the fringe of the Row, and briefly on the Row. Stanford University's Hopkins Marine Institute expanded its activities. Then in a few years things began to brighten.

Cannery Row Properties and other landlords began to sign up tenants — tenants different from the danger, toil and stench of the fishing industry — but tenants strangely allied to the "good life" that was the other side of the coin of "Old" Cannery Row.

These tenants are here to serve you. To make life more enjoyable. To provide you with goods seldom found elsewhere. There is something always unique about all operations on "New" Cannery Row.

Early in the rebirth, Neil De Vaughn opened his famous Fish and Steak House, and Kalisa her Gourmet Restaurant. There followed a rapid proliferation of outstanding dining spots.

Among those are Mark Thomas's Outrigger with its fantastic setting; the Sardine Factory, successful overnight, which is located in the building which housed the original restaurant on the Row; and the place which really brought the "swing" back to Cannery Row, The Warehouse, with its 1920's jazz, jazz, jazz. This last is the only spot which has girls, but they're "Untouchables."

Also early in the "rebirth" came other industries. There are several firms using the old buildings as storage areas. There have been a number of electronic and associated companies. There are various professional and semi-professional offices, national headquarters for small organizations, radio stations, and there is even a church established on the Row.

Fourteen years ago, Dick

Mack brought his Himalayan Industries to Cannery Row to manufacture back pack equipment for the bludgeoning growth of demand from hikers, skiers, mountain climbers, and the rest of that hardy breed.

It has already expanded into another building, employs 54 persons working two shifts, with enough business for three. Dick and his associate, Bob Collier, have international distribution, and have direct representation in Germany and Japan. With the predictions of the U.S. Dept. of Commerce showing hiking, etc., as the third fastest growing sport, it may not be too long before they will take over their entire end of the Row.

Dr. Dean Gamble, a Carmelite now, brought a branch of his Ward's Natural Science Establishment to Cannery Row, carrying on the tradition of "Doc" Ricketts. Ward's ships biological and geological specimens all over the world and employs over 20 persons in their Cannery Row branch.

Studio Weavers, who wholesale to some of the leading fashion stores in the country, have just moved their looms there. And Omni Frames distributes imported frames for paintings all over the west.

To these add all the shops there to serve the public — the galleries of art — the small craft industries.

Bob Limber just moved his gallery over from Carmel; Livingstone's Gallery has been there for years with a branch in Carmel — while Ring's is a sometimes gallery with food. Or is it the other way around — sometimes food with an occasional something — like art?

The Carousel just arrived with its bright array of womens fashions. While the Callopie and Pin Jab offer the esoteric and way-out unusual — a real experience. You have what makes it swing, gals.

And then there is Mrs. Esther Cook with her Old General Store, preserving the authenticity of the old Wing Chong Market. In fact some of her exquisite antiques must have been of the era of Old Cannery Row.

If you think Cannery Row doesn't swing, try it at night sometime. The dinner crowds, the theater crowds from the Steinbeck Theater, the crowds looking for a drink or entertainment — they're all there and they're finding it. Food, fun, frivolity — but no femmes, as of yore.

This last January, Kalisa threw a "Second Cannery Row Ball" at her restaurant — which really was turned into a birthday party for Kalisa. Dignitaries came from all around and a "ball" was had by all.

Kalisa and Cannery Row inhabitants plan to make it an annual event, with streets roped off and revelers wandering from place to place to toast the re-birth of the New Cannery Row.

There's enough initiative and wit, — intelligence and artists, — inspiration and business acumen — and buckets of spirit that will make Cannery Row swing again.

THE BLOTTER

by c.r. bee

Human chains were the order of the day on Sunday at the Carmel beach, when 20 or more people got involved with swimmers in trouble in the choppy surf.

About noon, Kenneth Mattis of the Defense Language Institute needed help, and a human chain was formed that included Carmel police officer Joseph Stengel and Marines from DLI. The chain reached into the surf and pulled Mattis ashore none the worse except for a few swallows of sea water.

A few minutes later, it appeared that five people were in trouble this time, and the Coast Guard and Pacific Grove Marine Rescue Unit of the Fire Department responded.

Once again the human chain was formed, and Larry Wright of Oakland and Ralph Waterman of Iowa City, Iowa were hauled from the water.

They were taken to the Community Hospital by the Carmel Red Cross Ambulance, where they were reported in good shape but suffering from exposure and exhaustion.

A search was made of the water for a long while for the others reported needing help, but was abandoned about 3 p.m. when no one turned up missing.

On Monday afternoon, a report of bees swarming on Carpenter St., near 1st Ave., was received, and Edd Fischer of the Carmel police was sent to investigate. Lots of bees in the area, he reported, but they definitely not swarming.

Sunday morning at 12:24, Miss Lorveta Towery of Mon-

School District Leases CV Pool

The use of Carmel Valley Community Center swimming pool was approved by the Carmel school board at its last meeting on a five year lease. The school district will pay for maintenance up to $2000 per year and hire personnel for the pool.

Plans for programs in the schools during the summer and for the fifth grade next year as described two weeks ago, were approved.

The gift of a micro-projection microscope from Dr. Joseph B. McCarthy of Carmel to the high school was accepted with gratitude.

Lowell C. Battcher was hired as an industrial arts teacher at Middle School to replace William Moritz who has been given a sabbatical leave.

The resignation of Miss Crystal Gips, high school English teacher, was accepted.

An "Art Impact Center" containing instructions and materials for the use of classroom teachers was demonstrated by Mrs. Regina Moritz, Middle School art and social studies teacher, who represented the Art Curriculum Committee which hopes to develop a sequence of art training.

George Gustafson reported the scope and sequence progress in math instruction by the math curriculum committee.

tere was driving north on Dolores when she ran off the perfectly level street and smashed her car into a large pine tree. Carmel's Red Cross Ambulance arrived and took Miss Towery to Community Hospital where she was treated for a severe laceration to her chin (six stitches) and multiple fractures of her right forearm.

A Dream Comes True

I never really wanted to get rich by running a coffee shop. If I had, I would have bought Denny's stock or maybe even Kentucky Fried Aardvark.

My dream was to have a cute little coffee shoppe with cute little mottos like "No Checks Cashed" or "We Reserve the Right Not to Serve Gargantuans."

But so many things interfered that I never quite got around to doing what I really wanted to do until recently.

What I always wanted to do most was—nothing.

And that's just about what I've been doing since opening our elegant new coffee shop on Cannery Row. Real brass light sockets, genuine composition tile on the floor, imported hardwood door stops.

Nothing but the finest materials were used in creating a decor that is unmatched in several states including Arkansas and Coma.

As I was saying despite all this elegance and food that is strictly edible we are doing practically nothing—something I would enjoy very much if I could afford it.

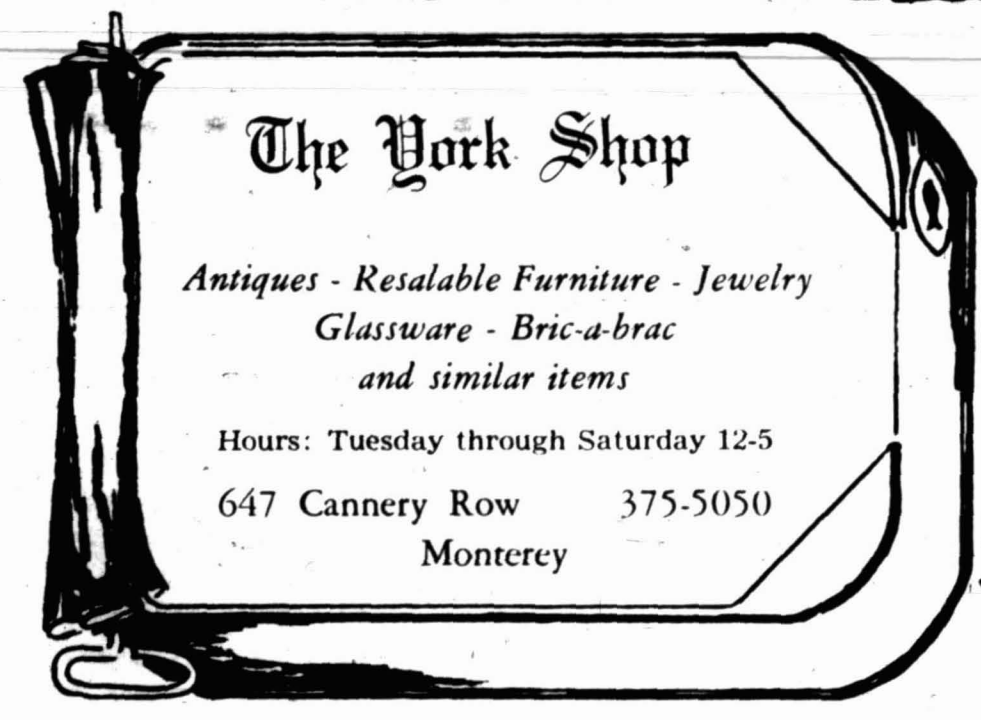

But due to the surtax and higher interest rates I am forced to get some business into the joint.

As a special inducement this week only we are repeating our famous one-cent sale. Buy one of our regular items at the regular price and get the second one for one cent off.

No one else dares to make such an offer. We are kind of scared of it ourselves.
